Fair enjoyed through generations of families

The Germantown Fair is known for enticing families through several generations to the fairgrounds to enjoy the sights, sounds, and smells, of the delicious treats, games, and rides associated with a county fair. This year's fair is no different. Sharon and Richard Teegarden can be seen above enjoying the first night of the fair on Monday, July 29th, with their grandchildren, Mollee and William. Fair-goers young and old enjoyed the unseasonably cool weather as they rode, ate and enjoyed the comedic antics involved with the greased pig and chicken rodeo contests. Others cheered for their favorite contestant in the Miss Germantown Fair pageant and enjoyed the unbridled show of nerves of steel in the Demolition Derby and Monster Truck events. The 2013 Germantown Fair continues through Saturday night. More pictures can be seen in this week's issue.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

"Do to others as you would have them do to you."
- Luke 6:31

RECIPROCAT

Rules of reciprocity are universal. Every society has both implicit and explicit rules about giving back to those who have given to us. We don't usually notice these rules until we encounter different rules from other cultures, or when someone violates the rules. The duty to reciprocate explains why we feel uncomfortable at Christmas if someone has given us a gift and we don't have one for them. We're likely to go out and buy something for them in this case. Rules of reciprocity apply also to justice in punishment, and the lex talionis or "eye for an eye" rule was probably instituted as an attempt to limit our murderous impulses for revenge. We shouldn't always demand justice; sometimes mercy is the more loving response. We also shouldn't expect reciprocity in giving in many cases as well. Parents give to their young children knowing that their children don't have the wherewithal to reciprocate and sometimes we give anonymously knowing that the other person would feel uncomfortably indebted if they knew who gave to them. So, we should give generously, especially to those in need, keeping in mind how our gift is likely to make the other person feel.

OAKLAND CHRISTIAN by Barbara Browning

"I Love to Tell the STORY" was the message of the hour. Self-explanatory to a Christian. Our Revival meeting was awesome with Kenny Speakes. What a blessing he is.

Our Youth are having a day at Coney Island, August 1. Then they have a campout August 3.

August 4th morning finds us having a guest speaker from "Disciple Makers" in our Sunday School hour to tell of that great work. We are also collecting clothing, shoes, purses, etc. for "Master's Provisions", another mission we support.

August 18, 6 p.m., we will meet at the "Giving Fields" on Hwy 8, Campbell County, to help pick produce. This is a garden grown for the sole purpose of feeding the homeless and needy in three counties.

Prayer concerns include June Clifford (home), Bobby Johnson (MRI), Cary Carl, baby Ashby Rees, Mrs. Bud McCarty, Shirley Ellis, Ruth Woods, Florine Hiles, Johnnie Johnson, Debbie Cortner, Eudell Hall, Martha Ann Peddicord, Anna Lee Clayton, Shawna McKenney, Shirley Young, Haley Long, shut-ins, armed forces, and our leaders. Our sympathy goes to the loved ones of Lillian Haley.

NEW ZION BAPTIST by Sheril Fletcher

Come join us for Worship and Christian fellowship. Sunday School begins at 10:00 a.m., Morning Worship is at 11:00 a.m. and Evening Worship starts at 6:30 p.m. Bible Study is on Thursdays at 7:00 p.m.

Upcoming: On August 4th there will be a Deacon's meeting at 5:30 p.m. and a WMU meeting at 6:00 p.m. On August 8th from 6 p.m. - 10 p.m. there will be training for the Disaster Relief Team in Falmouth. On August 24th at 6 p.m. we will be having a Hymn Sing.

Psalm 139:12 "Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee; but the night shineth as the day: the darkness and the light are both alike to thee."

Please remember in prayer Noah Holmes, Gayle Blevins, Charlie Downard, Roy Hutchinson, Betty A. Hargett, the Dixon, Newman and Ashcraft Families, our country and its leaders.

GREETINGS FROM ST. JAMES by Caroline Jefferson

Our new monthly adventure will begin this Friday, August 2, with a monthly First Friday Fish Fry from 5-7 p.m. We invite all to come and enjoy a good meal, followed at 7:30 by our First Friday Mass celebrated by Msgr. Dominic. 8 a.m. Masses are being said for Tyler Hargett, Wendell Rigg and Betty Rudd on Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday and for Mary Bauer on Friday.

St. Augustine will be hosting their 45th Annual Festival on August 9, 10 and 11 and invite everyone to enjoy a weekend of fun, activities and food! Proceeds benefit St. Augustine School and Parish. With the financial support of an anonymous donor, Msgr. Dominic has established the Fr. Saner Memorial Scholarship. Donations to this very worthy fund can be sent to Msgr. Dominic to aid with tuition through a scholarship application process. Bigger is not always better, and the smaller class sizes of a Catholic School can aid students through more individualized attention. It's not too late to enroll your children for the 2013-14 sessions.

We continue to pray for all our sick throughout the county and for all our military personnel. May God bless and keep us!

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

We have spent most of the past week at Ruggles Campground. There have been fairly large crowds most nights.

Bob Kennard, Vidie Grace's husband, completed his journey here on earth this past week. I have had the opportunity to spend a lot of time visiting with Bob on his front porch.

We started a new study in our adult Sunday School. The topic is "Contagious Christian" and is led by Earl Bush. We had nine present.

Millie Bush led the worship service, Susie Hargett led the singing, Margie Hill and Paul Mefford provided the music, and Jill White did the power point. Genna Lou Murray was not feeling well and Vidie Grace was not present to help with the music.

We had a special anointing and prayer service for Larry England who is undergoing chemotherapy. Betty Hargett is having a surgical procedure this coming week. McKenzie Deatley is also having a surgical procedure done on Monday.

We had 57 in attendance for Sunday worship. My sermon this week was on prayer. Jesus' followers asked Him to teach them how to pray and He taught them the Lord's prayer.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF AUGUSTA by Rita Bradford

Hello & God's Blessing from The First Baptist Church of Augusta. Brother Tony's sermon was titled "Be Holy". As Christians we are called by God to be holy in thoughts & deeds. Only when we are focused on the Lord in mind & deed can we be truly satisfied with our lives.

We invite you to come join us as we train our focus on the Lord. Our services begin with Wed. Night Prayer Meeting @ 7 p.m. Our Sunday services begin with Sunday School @ 9:30 a.m. This week's lesson is titled "God Sends His Son". This lesson will help you understand who Jesus is & how He can impact your life. Sunday Morning Worship begins @ 10:30 a.m. Sunday Evening Service begins @ 6:00 p.m.

Be careful this week & don't let the enemy distract you from the blessings that God has in store for you.

BERLIN BAPTIST by Karen Cooper

We invite all to come and worship with our family of believers. Sunday services begin with Sunday School at 10:00 a.m., morning worship at 11:00 a.m. and Sunday night services are held at 7:00 p.m., message by Brother Dan Black.

This past Sunday was a wonderful time in the Lord at Berlin Baptist. Brother Dan's message was taken from Acts 4:1-22 and titled "A Christian's life will influence other people; will your influence be positive or negative?"

We would like to announce our Homecoming celebration on August 18th beginning after our morning service. The celebration will be held from 12-3 p.m. We will serve dinner at 12:00 and afterwards we will receive a message from Brother Bobby Barnes. We will finish the afternoon with a hymn sing. If you plan to attend the Homecoming please RSVP @ 606-747-5058, 606-747-5529 or 606-735-2176.

with David Blandford, M.D.

KEEPING AN EYE ON YOUR INTERNAL CLOCK

Ever wonder what you would do without sunlight? The answer rests with your eyes, which provide your brain with clues that help it set the internal clock that keeps you going on a 24-hour cycle. Fairly recently, researchers discovered that there are branch-like eye cells that mammals utilize to set their inner clocks to either day or night. These so-called "intrinsically photosensitive retinal ganglion cells," or ipRGCs, number only between one and two thousand and are positioned deeper in the retina than the rods and cones (the photoreceptors that help the eye distinguish light and color). For their part, ipRGCs measure overall light intensity and relay the information to a small region of the brain that controls the body clock.

This week's column has been brought to you as a public service. We strive to offer you the highest quality care from our physicians and staff. Our philosophy is to provide cost-efficient eye care to all of our patients in a compassionate and friendly manner. From the moment you arrive at KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE to the completion of your visit, we hope that you will feel confident you are in the best hands for care of your eyes. We're located at 1937 Old Main St., Suite 1, Old Washington, where surgery is always a last resort. We truly want to help you and encourage you to call us at 606-759-7883 or 800-658-7282 for more information. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES."

During the checkpoints officers will be enforcing laws related to Operating a Motor Vehicle While Under the Influence of Drugs or Alcohol, Licensing of Motor Vehicles and Operators, Registration and Insurance Violations, Seat Belt and Child Restraint violations along with Motor Vehicle Equipment Violations.

Bracken County roadway locations include, but are not limited to: KY 8 at KY 19; KY 8 at KY 1159; KY 8 at KY 1019; KY 1159 at Perkins Ridge Road; KY 19 at KY 539 (Neave-Milford Road); KY 10 at KY 22; KY 10 at KY 19 (Powerville); KY 10 at KY 19 (Brooksville); and KY 10 at KY 875 (Bridgeville Road).

Letters To The Editor

A mother and her four children aged from 6 years to 16 years were killed in a house in Bracken County, Kentucky on Saturday, July 13th. Firefighters bravely attempted to knock down the flames and rescue the family, but were only able to rescue the father who is still in critical condition. Two family members were able to escape unharmed.

Kentucky has been no stranger to this type of fire related devastation in 2013. Four children aged 5, 4, 2 and six months and their father tragically lost their lives in a fire in Jonancy, Kentucky, on January 8th. Similarly, on March 9th five children, a pregnant woman and her fiancé all lost their lives in a fire in Gray, Kentucky. The children were aged from 10 months to 3 years, and two of the children were family friends of the residents. The effects of tragedies like these often resonate with a community long after the smoke clears.

Fire does not discriminate and can strike at any time and in any type of home, but working smoke detectors and fire sprinklers can help to avoid potential injuries and tragedies from occurring. Properly installed and maintained fire sprinklers control and typically extinguish a fire before the fire department even arrives on the scene. More importantly, the presence of fire sprinklers mitigates the risk to individuals affected by the blaze, including firefighters and other first responders.

I urge you to check the batteries in your smoke alarms, educate yourself on the current fire protection requirements in your own city and state, and learn how to protect yourself, your loved ones and your community from the ravages of fire. Our thoughts and prayers are with the victims and their family during this tragedy.

President, National Fire Sprinkler Association*

Keep your most precious cargo safe

Submitted by Shannon Smith, CEA for Family and Consumer Sciences

We all know that summertime in Kentucky is hot and humid, to say the least. But did you know that temperatures inside a vehicle can rise as much 19 degrees higher than the outside temperature within 10 minutes and can reach 45 to 50 degrees warmer in as little as an hour?

Temperatures like that can make the inside of a car lethal for anyone as it can raise body temperatures to dangerous levels. Body temperatures higher than 104 degrees can lead to heat stroke, and temperatures above 107 can be deadly.

Unfortunately, many of the deaths related to hot cars are children. In 2012, 32 U.S. children died from heat stroke because they were left in cars.

Children are more susceptible to heat-related injuries and deaths than adults because a child's body temperature can rise three to five times quicker than an adult. Children cannot regulate their body temperatures as efficiently as adults.

Through a partnership with the Louisville office of the National Weather Service and with funding by a Barnhart Fund for Excellence grant, personnel with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension have developed several resources to help parents and caregivers keep our most precious cargo—children—safe. Here are some tips from their Beat the Heat: Check the Backseat campaign:

- Never leave a child unattended in a vehicle. Not even for a minute.

- Don't overlook babies sleeping in a car.

- Always lock your car, and ensure your children do not have access to keys or remote-entry devices.

- Teach your children not to play in vehicles.

- Avoid all distractions while driving, such as talking on a cell phone. Remember it's against the law in Kentucky to text while driving.

If you see a child left unattended in a vehicle, immediately call 911. For more information on Beat the Heat: Check the Backseat, contact the Bracken County office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Optometrists offer tips for parents on identifying eye problems

Parents will soon be busy making their back-to-school lists. School supplies and new clothes may be at the top of those lists, but an eye exam should be included as well.
State law requires that children ages 3 through 6 who are entering a public school or preschool program for the first time have a vision exam.
“Studies show that vision problems are a major factor in limiting children’s abilities to learn and succeed,” said Dr. Tonia Batts, an optometrist in Mayfield, Ky. “Having children’s eyes examined is one of the most important things parents can do to support their children’s education and good health.”
Up to 13 percent of children age 5 and younger have some type of vision condition. After age 5, that number increases to 25 percent.
“We encourage all parents to have their children’s eyes examined because many problems may not be obvious to them or their children’s teachers,” Batts said. “Young children don’t realize that the way they see the world may not be the way it should be. Early diagnosis and treatment can prevent loss of sight from amblyopia, which is commonly called lazy eye. Unfortunately, one-half of all cases of amblyopia are not diagnosed until after age 5, when it is difficult to cor-

Amblyopia is the leading cause of vision loss in people under age 40 -- more than injuries or any other disease. However, it is almost 100 percent treatable if detected early.
Batts also said an eye examination is particularly important if your child exhibits any of these signs of possible eye problems:
• Loses place while reading, holds the book closer than normal or uses his finger to maintain his place while reading.
• Avoids close work.
• Tends to rub her eyes.
• Complains of frequent headaches.
• Turns or tilts his head, or squints, to use only one eye.
• Omits or confuses small words when reading aloud.
• Consistently performs below academic potential.
Many private insurance plans, Medicaid and KCHIP cover these services. Private programs also are available to help families meet these expenses, such as the Kentucky Vision Project, which is sponsored by the Kentucky Optometric Association and has donated millions of dollars in vision care. Sight for Students and the Lion’s Club are other programs that can help.

Tip Line now available through the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association Website

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association is proud to announce the availability of a Tip Line accessible on their website. "Anyone who may have important information for any Sheriff's Office in the Commonwealth may now provide that information through a TIP LINE now available on the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association website and it will be forwarded to the appropriate office," according to Executive Director Jerry Wagner.

Wagner says, "All identifying information is removed before the tip is received by the Sheriffs Office. This "TIP LINE / Contact" page can be used to notify the Sheriffs Office of illegal drug activity or other illegal activity that you feel we need to know. The law enforcement agencies receive numerous tips about drug and other illegal activity that have been used in the prosecution of several cases. When sending a tip please be as specific as possible as to Who, What, Where, and When, the events have taken place. The more detailed the information is the better chance we have of using it in the case and or obtaining a search warrant. Remember, not all tip line information is actionable but is good knowledge and you CAN choose to remain anonymous."

You may reach the tip line from the KSA website at kentuckvsheriffs.kv.gov and click the link to submit at <http://kentuckysheriffs.kv.gov/pages/contact.aspx>.

Rescue groups partnering with the Bracken Co. Animal Shelter

Pictured above are two members of New Spirit Rescue from Maineville, Ohio. This past week they assisted the BCAS by taking three Australian Shepherds. We now work with 24 various Rescue groups who assist with relocating 68% of all canines received by this shelter. We also have many canines adopted directly from BCAS.

During the month of July your BCAS has responded to nine calls concerning starved livestock/horses and 7 calls on canines being chained in open sun without shelter, food or water. We responded to two calls on canines that had been totally abandoned by renters who moved away. Thanks to concerned callers many animals are saved.

A primary interest of the BCAS is to make sure animals in Bracken County are being cared for humanely. If you see an animal starved, neglected, abandoned or otherwise mistreated, please pass along that information to Pat Taylor at the Bracken County Animal Shelter, 735-3475.

TRASH TALK

by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug

606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! Can you believe that the calendar has rolled around to August already?! This is Germantown Fair Week and in years past, by this time, area crops were in much need of rain. Many crops have been saved by the phenomenon of rain during this particular week of growing season! It has always been a regional expectation of rainfall to occur sometime during the GermantownFair! Fortunately, the area is not in dire need of this rain as in many years past, but the meteorologists are predicting it just the same! We hope everyone will enjoy their "fair experiences" this week as area children get their final "hoorays" in before school resumes!

This year's rain has certainly put a damper on a lot of activities, including our road cleans! Normally we are required to conduct three road cleans per year, but this year we have gotten permission from Frankfort to conduct only one more clean. Due to the rain, it has been difficult for the road departments to get the mowing completed making it impossible for the non-profit groups to see the trash. Our next clean is scheduled for September 30 thru October 24 so if your group has not signed up, please give us a call 735-9960 to be included in the Fall Road Clean.

Someone called last week regarding disposal of metal. Bracken County has an ongoing metal recycling program with the drop-off location behind the Bracken County Maintenance Barn during the normal business hours of 7 AM until 3:30 PM. Any type of metal is accepted including appliances, fencing, roofing, equipment, etc. If you have one appliance or a lot of metal to dispose and cannot or are not interested in hauling it yourself, give us a call and we can help you find someone to come load and haul off the metal for you. Nationwide, metal recycling contributes $4 billion in state and local revenues and $6.3 billion in federal taxes according to a recent independent survey of the metal recycling industry. Metal can be recycled numerous times and this industry needs to grow so that it can continue to boost our economy, put citizens to work, protect our environment and help conserve energy. Every aluminum and steel can that you recycle, along with all the old lawn mowers, appliances and gadgets helps to create jobs, improve air quality and our quality of life! YOU are the key to making all of these things happen every time YOU recycle! Keep up the good work!

Judge Bush has signed the necessary papers for Frankfort for our Tire Amnesty to be held October 24, 25 and 26 at the Bracken County State Maintenance Barn. These amnesties are sponsored by the local government in cooperation with the Kentucky Division of Waste Management who has the authority to regulate the amnesties. Tire retailers of any kind have never been allowed to participate in these amnesties and Mr. Ricky Solomon and Mr. J.R. Holt of the Recycling Assistance Branch of the Division of Waste Management will be conducting visits to local retailers prior to the scheduled amnesty.

Our sincerest appreciation for the prayers and well-wishes for our family's surgical procedures this summer! Also, appreciation to Stacey Florer and his road department crew, along with Mark Pribble who has helped immensely with the recycling portion of our duties! This county may lack the amenities of big cities, but it certainly makes up for it in TLC! Blessings to all as you RECYCLE, REUSE and REDUCE to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you – Bin & Bug.

Attention: Foster families needed

The Kentucky Department for Community Based Services Recruitment and Certification Unit is in desperate need for foster families for children from Bracken, Mason, Lewis, Robertson and Fleming counties. Currently they have only one family in Bracken County that is available to care for children and they are full and six in Mason County who are also full. Bracken County is a combined service county that is with Mason County and between the two counties they currently have over 80 children in foster care. If more children come into care these children will have to be placed long distances from their families, friends and close contacts. This is very difficult for a child to have to transition not only into a new family environment but also into a new community. It causes difficulty in being able to visit their family on a regular basis also.

They also have a need for families that are willing to adopt children if they are unable to return to their birth families. There are currently children eligible for adoption and awaiting a family. These children are typically older and might have some issue but they also desperately need a loving family. If you are interested in smaller children you can foster these children and if they become available

USDA Announces Results for 45th Conservation Reserve Program General Sign-Up Offers Received for 1.9 Million Acres

John W. McCauley, USDA Kentucky Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director, today announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will accept 1.7 million acres offered under the 45th Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up. The Department received nearly 28,000 offers on more than 1.9 million acres of land, demonstrating CRP's continuing appeal as one of our nation's most successful voluntary programs for soil, water, and wildlife conservation. Under Vilsack's leadership, USDA has enrolled nearly 12 million acres in new CRP contracts since 2009. Currently, there are more than 26.9 million acres enrolled on 700,000 contracts.

CRP is a voluntary program that allows eligible landowners to receive annual rental payments and cost-share assistance to establish long-term, resource-conserving covers on eligible farmland throughout the duration of their 10 to 15 year contracts.

Under CRP, farmers and ranchers plant grasses and trees in fields and along streams or rivers. The plantings prevent soil and nutrients from washing into waterways, reduce soil erosion that may otherwise contribute to poor air and water quality, and provide valuable habitat for wildlife. In 2012, CRP helped to reduce nitrogen and phosphorous losses from farm fields by 605 million pounds and 121 million pounds respectively. CRP has restored more than two million acres of wetlands and associated buffers and reduces soil erosion by more than 300 million tons per year. CRP also provides $2.0 billion annually to landowners—dollars that make their way into local economies, supporting small businesses and creating jobs.

In addition, CRP sequesters more carbon dioxide than any other conservation program in the country, and also reduces both fuel and fertilizer use. Yearly, CRP results in carbon sequestration equal to taking almost 10 million cars off the road.

USDA selected offers for enrollment based on an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) comprised of five environmental factors plus cost. The five environmental factors are: (1) wildlife enhancement, (2) water quality, (3) soil erosion, (4) enduring benefits, and (5) air quality.

for adoption you will have the first choice in doing so.

To become a foster/adoptive parent you must attend 30 hours of training, complete background checks, have personal and credit references, meet a safety inspection of your home, not be on any type of public assistance through the family support office, have sufficient income to meet your monthly financial needs, and complete a medical physical examination clearing you to care for children. New Kentucky laws go into effect

New laws approved during the Kentucky General Assembly's 2013 regular session go into effect on June 25.

That means laws against human trafficking will soon be strengthened. More DNA testing will be allowed as evidence in post-conviction felony cases. And school districts can start deciding whether they want to raise their compulsory attendance age to 18, though the 2015-16 school year would be the first year any changes could actually impact students.

The state constitution specifies that new laws take effect 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature, except for general appropriation measures and those containing emergency or delayed effective date provisions.

This year's regular session adjourned on March 26, making June 25 the day that most laws will take effect.

The laws taking effect that day include measures the following topics:

Child protection. House Bill 290 will establish by statute an independent review panel to investigate cases of child deaths and near-fatal injuries. The panel will be given access to complete records of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, as well as information from law enforcement and other agencies involved in the cases.

Crime. Senate Bill 15, named the Bryan Durman Act in honor of a Lexington police officer who was killed by a hit-and-run driver in 2010, will ensure that a person convicted of criminal homicide in the killing of a police or firefighter on duty doesn't become eligible for probation or parole until 85 percent of a sentence is served.

DNA testing. HB 41 will allow some felony offenders in prison or under state supervision to request testing and analysis of their DNA as case evidence.

Hemp. SB 50 creates an administrative framework for the growing of hemp in Kentucky if the crop is legalized by the federal government.

Human trafficking. HB 3 will strengthen human trafficking laws while protecting victims from prosecution for crimes they were forced to commit. The legislation will offer assistance to agencies responsible for helping human trafficking victims by creating a "human trafficking victims fund" supported by service fees paid by convicted human traffickers, proceeds from seized and forfeited assets of traffickers, and any grants, contributions, or other funds that may become available.

Proof of insurance. HB 164 will allow people to use electronic insurance cards on their smart phones or other electronic devices as proof of motor vehicle insurance. Drivers will still be required to keep paper insurance cards in their vehicles.

Religious freedom. HB 279 specifies that government shall not burden a person's freedom of religion. The legislation states that an action motivated by a sincerely held religious belief can not be infringed upon without a compelling governmental interest. (HB 279 was vetoed by the governor; the veto was overridden by the House and Senate.)

Scholarships. SB 64 will ensure that students earning Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarships aren't penalized in the amount of scholarship money they receive if they graduate from high school in three years rather than four.

School dropouts. SB 97 will allow school districts to increase the compulsory attendance age to 18 beginning in the 2015-16 school year. Districts that do so must have programs and resources in place for students at-risk of not graduating. The increased compulsory attendance age will become mandatory statewide four years after 55 percent of Kentucky school districts adopt it.

Student health. HB 172 will encourage schools to possess at least two epinephrine auto-injectors in case one is needed for a student having a life-threatening allergic or anaphylactic reaction.

Suicide prevention. SB 72 will require attendance at suicide prevention training programs at least once every six years for social workers, marriage and family therapists, professional counselors, fee-based pastoral counselors, alcohol and drug counselors, psychologists, and occupational therapists.

Teacher evaluations. HB 180 will require the Kentucky Board of Education to establish a statewide evaluation system for all certified personnel. The Department of Education, in consultation with teacher and principal steering committees, will develop the system prior to the 2014-2015 school year.

Tuition waivers. SB 95 will extend the five-year tuition waiver eligibility period for adopted children who serve in the military.

Victim protection. HB 222 will establish a crime victim protection program in the Secretary of State's office to allow domestic violence victims to have personal information, such as addresses, redacted from public voter registration roles. The legislation will also allow victims in the program to vote by mail-in absentee ballot.

Wee, wee, wee, all the way home . . .

The greased pig contest at the Germantown Fair had kids and pigs a-like squealing all the way home on Monday evening, July 29th. Winners in the 3-5 year old category were Landon Sorrell and Carter Wallingford, 6-8 year old winners were Brianna Bauer and Colby Doyle, 9-11 year old winners were James Poe and Jonathan Bell, 12-13 year old winners were Nick Woollard and Natalie Bell, and the 14 and up winners were Chad Brooks and Owen Bell.

Quota hunts and public land hunting information moves to online only

Information about quota hunts and public land hunting has moved out of the printed fall hunting guide and is now available online only at fw.ky.gov. People may apply for quota hunts during the month of September only.

The change follows the migration of quota hunt applications from paper forms to online and telephone several years ago.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is working to increase the use of technology to increase customer service. Placing quota hunt and public lands information online allows the department to update information immediately, instead of making people wait until a new guide is published.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife conducts quota hunts on public lands for deer, pheasant, quail, upland birds and waterfowl. The department's website details hunt dates and other quota hunting information. Hunters may apply for these hunts online at fw.ky.gov or by calling 1-877-598-2401. The non-refundable application fee is $3 for each hunter.

Hunters and trappers who want a physical copy of what's online will be able to print out the pages. Customers with additional questions about seasons or regulations can call the department at 1-800-858-1549 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (Eastern) on weekdays, or e-mail the Information Center at: info.center@ky.gov.

Printed copies of the 2013-14 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide will be available in early August wherever licenses are sold. The annual guide, which is now available on the department's website, details seasons, bag limits and other regulations for deer, elk, bear, turkey, small game and furbearers.

The all you can eat dinner, consisting of fish, chips, cole slaw, pickles and a drink, was enjoyed by members and guests.

An added attraction to this year's Farm Bureau fish fry was the Women's Committee members "showing off" their lovely glittered purple shirts. Football fans: Welcome to Transformational Change, Full Cost of Attendance and Pandora’s Box

Trial balloons were floated in 2011. Last month an NCAA conference commissioner issued a new set of buzz words for college sports fans to wrap their minds and tongues around. The town crier was sent to the gate ringing his bell to declare “Hear ye!, hear ye all!”

Transformational change. Transformational ... what? A five syllable synonym for Money. Also a fool’s temptation to open the proverbial Pandora’s Box.

More money for five Power Conference members, table crumbs for everyone else. Football’s proposed penthouse: SEC, Big Ten, Big 12, ACC and Pac-12.

For the rest of more than 300 NCAA affiliates transformational change means: “Times, they are a changing, boys. Best a luck to ya. Fend for yourselves!”

Now that you’re acquainted with transformational change be ready when television talking heads pull out another. Full Cost of Attendance and stipend.

Means pay athletes beyond value of a college athletic scholarship.

Two years ago the NCAA floated the figure $2,000-a-season for scholarship football players. If adopted, fans are certain to hear a howl go up from basketball coaches. And, the ACLU will clamor for Title IX equal pay for female athletes.

In recent years the media herd sitting for free on press row has bellowed righteously how universities rake in millions and exploit athletes who get nothing for their services. Sniff.

So, what exactly does Thousand Yards Bert and JumpShot Ernie and their pals get from college these days?

A USA Today analysis found that “a typical player receives at least $120,000 annually in goods, services and future earnings” for his work on the field or in the arena.

The median grant-in-aid is $27,923, athletic scholarship, received by men’s basketball players at 120 schools in the Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS). At University of Kentucky the median is $32,703 a season.

Let’s see if we have this straight. A scholarship student-athlete receives a $120,000-a-year education and NCAA conference commissioners want to add a Full Cost of Attendance stipend starting at $2,000? Feels like the old commish is trying to pull a fast one, pick your pocket, doesn’t it?

Pandora’s Box, uh, Transformational Change ...

What the Power Conference commissioner(s) are not telling those who buy the products, fatten the (teevee) ratings and buy season tickets, is about on-the-ground realities.

√ Ticket prices won’t be going down anytime soon, will they? History tells us athletic department officials at power conference schools will croon about ‘their product’ then squeeze Joe Fan to pay more for everything from right-to-buy tickets, to parking, souvenirs to end zone bleacher seats.

√ Stipends will begin when ball coach knocks on a hot prospect’s front door. How will NCAA enforcement monitor the process? Stop laughing.

Examples of football programs left off the money train: Western Kentucky, Youngstown State, Florida A&M et cetera. All can forget competing for blue chip prospects.

Coaches? Ask yourself: If the Big Five becomes college football’s penthouse, what chance does say, WKU have of hiring a Bob Petrino?

√ And, soon enough after stipend starts a hotshot tailback will tell a reporter: “Hey, I’ve rushed for a thousand yards for this school. I should be paid more than the guy behind me on the depth chart.”

√ Basketball. Fan who believes his favorite ball coach won’t offer Johnny JumpShot ‘extra’ to come to his school probably believes John Calipari is Santa Claus, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs all rolled into one. Finally, featuring noble intent and 2013 reality, this scenario.

Last year NCAA president Mark Emmert crowed long and loud that, on his watch, “there’ll be no straying from college athletics’ most time-honored tenet: It’s grossly unacceptable and inappropriate to pay players ... converting them from students to employees.”

When the applause subsided and Louisville finished off Michigan to wrap up a tournament that generates more than $771 million a year in television rights alone, Emmert was apparently ready for a little transformational change.

“It’s time for a serious discussion about whether and how to spread a little more of the largess to those doing the playing and sweating,” he said.

Thus, that creaking noise you just heard was the lid being raised and ghostly words rising out of the darkness:

Transformational change ... and Full Cost of Attendance.

Pandora’s Box.

DIS ‘N DATA

• Coach Ray Harper’s Western Kentucky Hilltopper schedule was released last week. Highlights: A school record 17 games in Diddle Arena. Home dates with Murray State, Southern Miss and Ole Miss. Road dates with Louisville, Wichita State and Southern Illinois. No game with Middle Tennessee, and, I still think it too bad, no Eastern-Western game.

• Internet web site Bleacher Report had a feature recently projecting which freshmen are most likely to be one-and-done. Among the top 28 projected to stay or leave after one season: Marcus Lee, James Young, Aaron and Andrew Harrison and Julius Randle. Staying: Dakari Johnson

• Two weeks ago Las Vegas betting line had Kentucky favored over Western Kentucky by three. Last week the spread was 1.5. With practice still weeks away why the change? Maybe it was a Women’s Clinic by Mark Stoops at UK. Standing room only. Like politicians, the coach (and we) know women run the world, or should.

And so it goes.
